Virginia's home demonstration club women are still fighting the battle of the bulge.

Miss Janet Cameron, VPI nutritionist who has been instrumental in organizing "TOPS" (take Off Pounds Safely) clubs, says to date 18 groups have completed a four-month program in losing weight. The 481 women in the groups weighed about 45 tons at the beginning of the program, an average of 185 pounds each. They have lost over two tons of the excess weight.

Household Hints

Did you know that:

Small tears in net curtains can be mended by applying a thin coat of colorless nail polish to the tear and pressing the frayed edges together with your fingers until the polish dries.

Coffee and tea stains in china cups can be removed quickly with baking soda and a damp cloth.

To be sure your salt will pour when there is damp weather, coat the inside of the metal top of the shaker with a thin layer of parafin. Prick through the holes.

If you have an aluminum pan that is stained, stew some tomatoes in it and the stain will disappear.

WANTS WATER, GETS GASOLINE

Herman, Neb.- Mrs. Emma Miller is not so sure she likes the fact that, when she goes to her water pump to get water, she gets, instead, high octane gasoline. This has been going on for some weeks now and no one admits ownership of the gasoline. While three bulk plants are located near Mrs. Miller's home, all three operators deny that gasoline is missing from their tanks.

FLIES AND DRIVES

About Your Home

Has summer activity been hard on your front porch? If the floor is scratched and marred almost beyond recognition, you will be interested in a new floor and porch enamel designed only for use on floor surfaces exposed to excessive walk and wear. This seems to apply to a great many rooms in the modern home — the youngster's playroom, the hall, the kitchen and the porch.

A single coat can cover the most unsightly of scratches. There is a choice of 11 colors—light oak, dark oak, walnut, red mahogany, brown, green, red, two shades of gray, black and white. One coat of the paint dries in just four hours.

After it is applied the surface is very easy to care for. Its special chemical formulation leaves the floor surface highly resistant to floor scuffling. Ordinary soap and water are all you need to wipe the dirt off. The finish is highly polished, so no waxes are necessary. A good cleaning restores the sheen. This paint is said to be the floor paint of the future.

It is not necessarily expensive. One gallon will cover more than 600 square feet solidly. Ask your local paint or hardware store about this new paint if you are going to paint any floor surfaces in the future.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks recently declared the Eisenhower Administration was determined to get its multibillion dollar highway construction program through the next session of Congress.

SMUGGLES STEAMROLLER

London.- John McKenna believes in doing things in a big way. He was recently fined $8,820 for smuggling steamrollers out of Britain. British law prohibits the export of scrap metal, of which there is a scarcity. So McKenna shipped out his old steamrollers as working machines, which would be put to service on roads in Belgium. The jig was up, however, when some British visitors in Belgium spotted one of the relics in a Ghent junk yard and reported it to Parliament.

FALSE HUMOR COSTLY

Columbia, S. C.- In some way, the rumor got around that H. H. Brazzell was planning to plow his seven-acre watermelon patch and anyone wanting the melons could take them. Before Brazzell could scotch the rumor, more than 1,000 melons were taken.

During the winter months, the moisture that collects in the laying house poses a problem that every flock owner must face. Why do we have a damp-litter problem only during the winter? What can we do about it, and how dangerous is this excess water to the health and performance of the layers?

We have a greater problem in the winter because more water is deposited in the house then, and it becomes increasingly difficult, because of the weather and ventilation restrictions, to rid the laying quarters of moisture.

Most of the moisture increase originates with the birds. As egg production climbs, feed consumption increases and so does the water intake. This extra water is eliminated principally in the droppings, but is discharged in the air expelled from the lungs.

A heavy-laying flock, because the birds consume more feed and water, will discharge extra water at a greater rate than a light-laying flock.

Ventilating Problems

Unfortunately, the weather during winter works against elimination of moisture from the house. When outdoor air is near the saturation point...as it is so much of the time during winter. It is impossible to improve inside conditions by increasing the ventilation rate.

The prime objective of the flock owner should be to keep the house interior as warm as possible in winter. This will increase the moisture-carrying capacity of the air.

In addition, increasing ventilation as mid-day, when the carrying capacity of the outdoor air is greater, will be helpful.

Damp litter can cause considerable trouble in the flock. Besides constituting a stress on flock health, the damp litter makes a breeding place for parasitic worms and coccidia — which can become chronic problems.

The condition of eggs laid frequently depends on how damp the litter is; when litter is dry, the percentage of dirty eggs will be lower.

Sound house construction, and careful ventilating practices will reduce the problems of dampness in the laying house.

Soft, pliable leather is being fashioned into beautiful clothes for informal and formal living. Coats, skirts, suits and dresses are very smart and unusual looking made of a "skin you love to touch."

Leather is being combined with ribnit to create a slim dress of suede for the lady who wants a dress that is casual but different. Kidskin sport coat lined with alpaca and collared and cuffed with a contrasting color of suede, are expensive but will last and last.

Some of these lovely designs have an Oriental look and are trimmed and lined with linen or silk. The evening clothes are perhaps the most unusual looking of all. They offer ismple elegance that is as much at home in the suburbs as in the city.

Another new fashion note is the importance of the large fur muff to be worn with trim wool suits, Oriental lush fabrics for evening dresses, handsome - looking balck satin shirtwaists and furry plateau shaped hats to be worn with coats of textured wool tailleurs.
